The Kaiser would probably like to call "King's X" now as children do but the others in the game will not listen to him.

RECONSTRUCTION AFTER WAR

Senator Weeks of Massachusetts has introduced a resolution asking the creation of a special congressional committee on reconstruction after the war. This resolution, if adopted, will fill a vital need of the Nation. The English people have partly expressed themselves in the reconstruction platform set forth by the labor party but the United States, as yet, has done nothing along this line.

As Senator Weeks says, the end of the war may come sooner than it is expected and some plans should be made to facilitate the return of industry to normal conditions.

One of the biggest questions that will be before the American people is what to do with the thousands of soldiers who have stepped out of their former routines as peaceful citizens and have had their places filled by other workers.

Another question is that of the manufacturers who have enlarged their plants to many times their pre-war capacities and are engaged in producing articles, now essential, for which the demand after the war will be almost nothing.

The workers who have been trained in war work will also have to be dealt with. The use to which we shall put our merchant marine should be considered.

The prosecution of the war is the biggest thing before us at present. But we must not let the great problem of reconstruction be delayed until it is upon us.

The transition from war to peace conditions will be trying at best, just as the transition from peace to war brought unprecedented difficulties. Therefore let us begin to plan now so as to avoid as many of the difficulties as possible.

The first state to over the top in the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign was Iowa. Where the person who, at the beginning of the war, started the report that the Middle West was not backing our fighting forces as it should?

THE WEAKNESS OF HATE

It was the Germans who sang with lusty voices the "Hymn of Hate" against their rival, England. Just as a jealous person looks with envy and hatred on the good fortune of another person, so Germany fostered envy and malice toward England.

What has it profited them? Hundreds of thousands of men killed—men who had little sons and daughters, men who went home from their work in the evening to a pleasant fire, an attractive meal, and the evening pipe. These men now lie in graves, or in the open, unburied, dead.

From a purely pragmatic standpoint, hate is a weakness which it does not pay to cultivate.

The hate that some newspapers and some citizens of this and other countries are trying to foster is a weakness which must not be allowed to fasten itself upon the people of this country. To get on with the war, to finish the job completely and with the entire victory on the side of the Allies, America must needs have a cold, righteous wrath which has the temper of fine steel. Hate is a weak weapon, but cold anger is strong.

Dr. Stine says, "Avoid crowds, get plenty of fresh air, take regular exercise, and rest and get plenty of nourishment; and then if you'll sit steady in the boat" the influenza won't get you."

A German who threw a bomb into a French post miscalculated the politeness of the French soldier. The fuse burned longer than usual so the Frenchman snatched the bomb up and threw it back at the German just before it exploded with the remark "This is your bomb, I believe."

SAFEGUARDING THE FUTURE

The future careers of citizens and the ultimate efficiency of funds contributed by taxpayers can be safeguarded best by increasing the facilities for the higher training of teachers and by directing instruction toward the practical needs of the people.—Bruce R. Payne, president, George Peabody College for Teachers.

H. R. Clay, Former Tiger, Cited. Lieutenant H. R. Clay of Fort Worth, Tex., and end on the Tiger football team of '13, has been cited for bravery in action, according to information received here. He is in the aviation branch of the service.
